Kapunda High School

Kapunda High School is a relatively small country high school located 80 km north east of Adelaide between the beautiful valleys of Barossa and Clare. The town of Kapunda is Australia's oldest mining town attracting tourists, particularly those interested in history and heritage. Kapunda High School is one of the oldest high schools in rural South Australia and draws students from Kapunda as well as the communities of Freeling, Roseworthy, Wasleys, Greenock and Gawler. The school offers a wide range of curriculum and extra curricula activities to students delivered by dedicated staff who work closely with our parents and the wider community.
